Action Increased in "The Bright Shawl" Movement

By JAMES W. DEAN

New York. "The Bright Shawl" will not be filmed as Joseph Hergemoller wrote it. I learned that as I watched John S. Robertson directing Richard Barthelmess in scenes of it.

The usual method of transferring stories to the screen has been reversed in this instance. Hergemoller based his story on an old man's vision of a young man's vision. The movie stimulates the vision. Frequently a movie adds a vision of a novel's vision.

"Hergemoller's story as written would have made a fine photograph," Robertson said. "The story never accomplished anything. It was a stomp. He went to Cuba to have the country. His attitude toward women was not normal. He lost his ideals and his romance."

"One may read several chapters in a book and lay it down. They may pick it up and read on again. They may have lost interest in the book. They read something of their own experience into it. The action of a written story may move in the manner (making a wave) motion with the reader. The action on the screen must move in this manner, making a straight sweep with the hand. Since the photograph tells the story in one hour and at one sitting the action and the interest in it can be allowed to follow the story."

I believe that as a general rule the story of a novel should be transferred to the screen as written. However, Hergemoller is a champion of words, rather than of action. His logic is not particularly sound. I believe that Robertson is more capable of telling a story than Hergemoller.

Robertson said that the story of "The Bright Shawl" and "The Bonded Woman" were both written by Hergemoller. He was filming the former in New York. The latter was to be filmed in London. Robertson said that the story of "The Bright Shawl" was a stomp. He went to Cuba to have the country. His attitude toward women was not normal. He lost his ideals and his romance.

"I took a year and a half to get permission to film 'Sentimental Journey,' Robertson said. "Lasky produced it only as a favor to me. It was not his idea. It was mine."

Barthelmess said that the story of "The Bright Shawl" was a stomp. He went to Cuba to have the country. His attitude toward women was not normal. He lost his ideals and his romance.

"THE LAY"

Waghenall and Kemper's production of "The Lay" by Mary Roberts Rinehart is being presented here for one week commencing Wednesday and Saturday, by a brilliant cast.

This is the play, conceived by all the best of the theatre in years. This is the play about which there has been more discussion by playgoers for more than one year there. In addition, "The Lay" is a play of the highest quality. These are the facts to compare with.

And price, however, as the saying runs, goes but a little way. For that reason the management refers to its own judgment of "The Lay" as that of the critics. New York and Chicago who were unanimous in their enthusiasm over the play, first excerpt from some of the criticism follows:

"The best mystery play that New York has ever seen."—Telegram.

"A wild mystery melodrama, considerably wilder than any seen in these parts for a long time—thoroughly interesting and immensely amusing."—Time.

"Keeps standing on the tips of their toes."—The World.

"Baffling, exciting and a succession of thrills with interludes of comedy that were greeted with shrieks of laughter."—The Sun.

"Has never been equalled for baffling and delicious thrills."—The Globe.

And these that follow are from Chicago:

"Thrill after thrill, with everything leading to the top of the best sensation after another."—Daily News.

"A play of sweeping movement, sudden turn, quick surprises and astounding solution."—Journal.

"This, then, is 'The Lay'."

"Sweet Nell of Old Drury" deals with the career of Nell Gwynne, queen of the theatre in the reign of Charles II. and the most brilliant actress of the English stage. The play is a comedy and is a masterpiece of the pen.

Pythians Play Scona At Southside Tonight

Teams Are Tied for First Place in League Standing with Eight Points Each and Tonight's Contest Will Show One of Them to Top—Both Teams Will Be at Full Strength for the Game Which Starts at 8:30 p.m.

Tonight, Knights of Pythias and the South Side hockey teams meet in a special game at the South Side rink. The teams are tied for first place in the city league, with eight points each, and tonight's contest will decide for the time being at least, which goes to the top of the league standing.

Knights of Pythias, confident as the result of recent victories, including their three-to-two defeat of Camrose on Wednesday night, feel that they are going into the leadership.

The South Side team will be short the services of Charlie Smith, who is still suffering from injuries. J. McKinnon and J. McGeorge will probably play defence, with the usual forward line of Lyle, Brown, A. McGeorge and C. McKinnon will be available.

Same Lineup
The Knights will be lined up as usual, with the same lineup that played against Camrose. Perrie and Howard on defence with McKinnon, Smith and Baker in the attacking force, and the usual quartet of relief players on the bench.

It is a curious thing that games played at the South Side rink have been an element of excitement in them, and that entirely because of the same teams playing at the arena. The cheering is almost as loud as at the rink, owing to the ice being smaller, in which the teams are more visible, and a new play starts. The game at the South Side rink has always plenty of action.

WHEAT DELIVERIES AND PRICES

The following is a detail of the daily car inspections of No. 1 northern wheat at Winnipeg on the way to Fort William and the price in stores at Fort William on the same day, during the months of September, October, November and December, 1922. The average car load was 1300 bushels.

It will be noted that from September 1st to October 13th, a period of 43 days, the price only rose 10 cents in the dollar market, and the highest price was $105.75, while on 16 days it was below 95 cents, and the lowest price was 96 cents.

From October 14th to December 31st, a period of 78 days it did not go below a dollar on any day. On 23 days in November and December it was above $1.10. The highest price paid was on November 16th when it was $1.15 and 1/2.

Prices were higher in the latter two thirds of the season than in the first one third, although the lake rates were considerably higher during the period. Indeed in the last 20 days of December, when navigation had closed and wheat had either to be stored or shipped to the sea board all rail the price was still substantially higher than in the first half of September, before the lake rates had been so greatly increased.

Day inspection prices of No. 1 Northern wheat (in store at Fort William or Port Arthur), for the period September to December, 1922:

IF THE BLIND LEAD THE BLIND

The three premiers of the three prairie provinces have decided to make compulsory marketing of wheat the leading feature of their legislative program. The administrative policy at the session of the several legislatures now at hand. They give no reason why they will be more likely this year than last to secure a wheat board of responsible and reputable men to administer the legislation to be provided. It will be recalled that subject to the limitations of the constitution the Dominion parliament passed a wheat board act that empowered the provincial legislatures of the three prairie provinces to place whether found in the hands of farmer or dealer. And that the legislation passed by Saskatchewan and Alberta has been paralleled in its arbitrary features outside of Russia under the Soviet. Notwithstanding the unlimited power placed in their hands it was found impossible to get men of responsibility and responsibility to administer the Dominion and provincial acts, and the legislation for that reason—and for that reason only—it did not become effective. If the legistin of last year is revived or amended it can only be assumed that the intention is to apply to the wheat board whoever will take the position. We have therefore the prospect of the most important trade of the country—measured by money turn-over—being first disrupted so far as existing business organization is concerned and then being placed absolutely in the hands of men who will only accept it because the salary—legislation with the opportunities—will mean more to them than the reputation that they stand to lose. It was a cardinal feature of the wheat board discussion of last year that the success of the act depended not so much upon its provisions as upon the character of the men who would administer it. That is true of the exercise of any and every arbitrary power. It must be as true of the prospective wheat board of 1923 as it could be of the abortive wheat board of 1922. But that point has not yet been brought forward in the discussion of this year; either in the pronouncement of the several premiers, the resolutions of the several United Farmer conventions, or in the approving articles of the newspapers supporting the so-called "progressive" party. A reason that was all powerful last year "cuts no figure" this year with the party that has no principle but expediency.

It will also be recalled that the great reason for the wheat board, as given last year, was the need of controlling the outflow of wheat as a means of keeping up the price to the farmer. H. W. Wood laid down the proposition that the great outflow of wheat each fall, compelled by the pressing necessities of the farmers, together with the early December advance in prices, caused a seasonal price depression. That the wheat board would overcome this condition was the great, or the only, reason offered for the only means of preventing this annually recurring loss to the farmers. It was pointed out by opponents that Mr. Wood's proposition was not supported by the facts. But a little thing like a more quotation of fact was not allowed to interfere with the application of the theories of the prophet of the gospel of state control of the farmers crop, imported direct from Moscow.

How far from the fact is Mr. Wood's theory that the fall outflow of Canada's wheat controls the world's price, is demonstrated by the experience of the shipping season recently closed. In the history of Canada, certainly—and probably in the history of the world—there had never been such a volume of grain going for export during the months of last fall. The first ten days of September showed an average of 730 cars a day. By the end of the month the average had increased to 1,000 cars a day. The first ten days of October showed an average of 1,100 cars a day. The first ten days of November showed an average of 1,200 cars a day. The first ten days of December showed an average of 1,300 cars a day. The volume of grain more than doubled the price of wheat. The price of wheat in the first ten days of September was $1.03 to $1.05. The price of wheat in the first ten days of October was $1.05 to $1.07. # WESTERN GRAIN ROUTE FAVORED BY THE FARMERS

Two Resolutions Are Passed By Convention At Calgary—Bow River Delegates Ask For Continuation of Seed and Feed Relief for Drought Area of Province.

By C. H. Stuart.
Apparently there has been some hitch in the rumored conference here Friday between delegates of the U. P. A. national representative and business men. The holding of such a conference was announced by a member of the U. P. A. business committee Wednesday evening, but Attorney General Bennett, who arrived in Calgary this morning, says that he has no knowledge of the conference.

His first resolution was of a general nature which declared without reservation that the route of grain should be kept open and that the government should not attempt to divert it.

Immediately after this motion carried without opposition from any speaker, Bow River delegates proposed the special resolution endorsing at the public meeting in Edmonton last Friday evening, which Mr. Sheppard and F. H. Herbert, Bow River delegates in favor of the western route and the resolution was voted unanimously supported from the assembly.

Criticized Headley.
This morning's session was held with members of a crowd when Bow River delegates submitted a resolution and a resolution of seed and feed relief in the drought areas of the province. The delegates in various parts of the hall rose to oppose the motion. The motion of Mr. George Headley to the effect that "there would be no money and no money for farmers" was not carried. Many delegates declared that the motion was not in order.

"Better help people out of the drought where they can," said the declared one speaker. Others thought it was useless to keep on holding imprudent farmers.

NEWSPAPER MEN AND CAMERAS SEEK RUM FLEET

New York Reporters and Photographers Turn Three Mile Limit In Chartered Yacht

New York, Jan. 18.—Reporters and photographers of four New York news newspapers put out a specially chartered tug yesterday and toured the rim of the three-mile limit off the New Jersey coast. They cover whether the fleet of rum ships described in recent Associated Press reports was still there.

In a single line the ships are the fleet, made from a point northeast of the three miles north of Seabright, N. J., to another due east of Sandy Hook and from twelve to fifteen miles at sea.

Reporters disagreed as to the number of the fleet, but of the more of ships found at anchor the decks of 20, said fourteen, were empty, with whiskey cases. The World reporter declared to see the vessels which he believed to be rum runners, although the navy did not have time to visit them all.

The newspapermen declared they were offered largesse in liquor of rum and that the only thing to prevent them from getting more than a thousand or more cases had been their own refusal to accept it.

There were two-masted schooners from Nova Scotia, they reported. The British flag, they reported. There were two-masted schooners from the British flag, they reported. There were three-masted schooners from the British flag, they reported.

IF RHEUMATIC EAT NO SWEETS
Says glass of Sals helps to overcome Rheumatism acid

Rheumatism is caused by acid in the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and excrete it in the urine. The pores of the skin are also a means of excreting this acid. In damp and chilly conditions the skin pores are closed, and the acid is not excreted. This causes the acid to build up in the blood, and the result is rheumatism.

PERJURY CHARGE ARISES OUT OF LIQUOR CASE

A case of perjury arising out of a liquor case in the city police will be tried by Judge and jury in the Supreme Criminal court here Friday according to the election of Fred, who was charged with perjury in the charge Thursday morning, said to be the first case of perjury in the city as well as the judge decide on.
